The Kindle screen displays the title 'The Art of Choosing' and the subtitle 'Past Is Prologue'. Below the subtitle is a quote by Joseph Campbell: 'Everything begins with a story.' The main text begins with:

I was born in Toronto, one month early and during a blizzard that covered the city in snow and silence. The surprise and the low-visibility conditions that accompanied my arrival were portents, though they went unrecognized at the time. My mother, as a recent immigrant from India, was of two worlds, and she would pass that multiple identity on to me. My father was making his way to Canada, but had not yet arrived; his absence at my birth was a sign of the deeper absence yet to come. Looking back, I see all the ways in which my life was set the moment I was born into it. Whether in the stars or in stone, whether by the hand of God or some unnameable force, it was already written, and every action of mine would serve to

CHAP. V.

1 The genealogy, age, and death of the patriarchs from Adam unto Noah.
24 The godliness and translation of Enoch.

THIS is the *book of the generations of Adam: In the day that God created man, in *the likeness of God made he him:

2 *Male and female created he them; and blessed them, and called their name Adam, in the day when they were created.

3 And Adam lived an hundred and thirty years, and begat a son in his own likeness, after his image; and *called his name Seth:

4 *And the days of Adam after he had begotten Seth were eight hundred years: and he begat sons and daughters:

5 And all the days that Adam lived were nine hundred and thirty years: *and he died.

6 And Seth lived an hundred and five years, and *begat Enos:

7 And Seth lived after he begat Enos eight hundred and seven years, and begat sons and daughters:

8 And all the days of Seth were nine hundred and twelve years; and he died.

9 ¶ And Enos lived ninety years, and begat †Cainan:

10 And Enos lived after he begat Cainan eight hundred and fifteen years, and begat sons and daughters:

T'HIS is the book of the generations of Adam. In the day that God created man, in the likeness of God made he him;

2 Male and female created he them; and blessed them, and called their name Adam, in the day when they were created.

3 ¶ And Adam lived an hundred and thirty years, and begat a son in his own likeness, after his image; and called his name Seth:

4 And the days of Adam after he had begotten Seth were eight hundred years: and he begat sons and daughters:

5 And all the days that Adam lived were nine hundred and thirty years: and he died.

6 And Seth lived an hundred and five years, and begat Enos:

7 And Seth lived after he begat Enos eight hundred and seven years, and begat sons and daughters:

8 And all the days of Seth were nine hundred and twelve years: and he died.

9 ¶ And Enos lived ninety years, and begat Cainan:

10 And Enos lived after he begat Cainan eight hundred and fifteen years, and begat sons and daughters:

- * 370. One ought to ask, not what images are or what one imagines something, but how the word “imagination” does not mean that I want to talk only about what one of what imagination essentially is, is as much as asking “imagination” as my question. And I am only saying not to be clarified — neither for the person who asks nor for anyone else — by pointing; nor yet by a process. The first question also asks for the clarification it makes us expect a wrong kind of answer.
- * 371. Essence is expressed in grammar.
- 372. Consider: “The only correlate in language to necessity is an arbitrary rule. It is the only thing which turns this objective necessity into a proposition.”

370. Nicht, was Vorstellungen sind, oder was da geschrieben wird, muß man fragen, sondern: wie das Wort “Vorstellung” wird. Das heißt aber nicht, daß ich nur von Worten reden möchte. Meine Frage vom Wort “Vorstellung” die Rede ist, ist sie nach dem Wesen der Vorstellung. Und ich sage nur, daß sie durch ein Zeigen — weder für den Vorstellenden, noch für den Erklären ist; noch durch die Beschreibung irgend eines Vorgangs. Die Worterklärung fragt auch die erste Frage; aber sie lenkt uns auf eine falsche Art der Antwort.

- 371. Das Wesen ist in der Grammatik ausgesprochen.
- 372. Überlege: “Das einzige Korrelat in der Sprache der Notwendigkeit ist eine willkürliche Regel. Sie ist das Einzige, was man aus der Naturnotwendigkeit in einen Satz abziehen kann.”

vi INTRODUCTION

even in scenes of serious interest, and in the easy and varied rhythm of the verse. We ought not perhaps to make much of the fact that it is the last in Meres' list. But on general grounds it seems safe to believe that The Merchant of Venice was written only a short time before the Palladis Tamia appeared, and that 1597 is therefore its probable date.

2. SOURCES OF THE PLOT

1. Shakespeare did not as a rule invent the incidents that occur in his plays, but borrowed them, in outline at least, from various sources. Some of his plots are founded on older plays, others on romances; several are taken from Sir Thomas North's version of a French rendering of Plutarch's Lives. Scholars have spent endless pains in tracking out the old plays and stories on which Shakespeare drew for material; a number of them were collected and published in 1843 by John Payne Collier, under the title of Shakespeare's Library.

2. In the case of The Merchant of Venice, the outline of the plot was found by Capell as one of a collection of stories in an Italian book called Il Peccore, written by a certain Ser Giovanni Fiorentino, and printed in 1578. A modern translation of it is given in the second volume of Collier's Shakespeare's Library: but no trans-
